

Take Me There

Rebuild your spirit, reclaim your wellbeing at these leading wellness retreats...

BY JUDY CHAPMAN

Amangiri, USA - Fitness Centre

While many of us have been cocooning over the last two years, the folks behind the scenes at the world's leading wellness retreats have been evolving and expanding their programs to new levels, and they are ready for us!

Let's face it. It's been a difficult time and it can be complex to truly understand and grasp the reality of how things have changed. Which is why it's essential to take regular time out to cultivate inner strength, clarity, and balance in this shifting landscape.

Wellness retreats around the world have stepped up for the challenge and are ready to help humanity heal. Along with evidence-based detox retreats to target inflammation and post-viral fatigue, many have also introduced high-vibrational energy healing work to help people create a sense of optimism, self-love, and a robust and enlivened spirit.

The beauty of a wellness retreat is that we not only get to explore and experience new landscapes and cultures, but we're bound to return home feeling much healthier than when we arrived.

Feeling inspired? Here are several retreats to consider for your next getaway. Let the healing begin...

Elevate your spiritual side at Yāan Healing Sanctuary in Mexico

When you feel the need to purify your being at a spiritual level then Yāan Healing Sanctuary is one of Tulum's hippest healing destinations. Stay in luxury eco-cabins and explore a menu of ancient Mayan rituals, indigenous and holistic therapies. For a deeper detox, try one of the Yāan cleanses facilitated by a team of practitioners, yogis and nutritionists. These consist of ozone therapy, colon therapy, juice detox and fasting as well as unique purifying ceremonies and treatments. Standout experiences include the Temazcal Mexican sweat lodge and a healing water circuit with hot and cold massage pools fed by natural spring water purified through a complex osmosis system and ultraviolet beams of light resulting in magical liquid water therapy! Yāan is very much an energy healing destination, a place to clean our body and energy so that we can live in a high vibrational state of being. Depart reborn.
